

The ACADEMY of Classical Christian Studies

Dear Academy Faculty and Staff,

I am writing today to let you know that Dr. Amy Allen - our Director of Educational Development and Grammar Department Chair - is leaving Oklahoma for the green pastures of Virginia where her husband has been offered a fabulous career opportunity! Although we are sad to lose a beloved administrator of Amy's capabilities, we rejoice in the happy news of her new position as Assistant Professor of Elementary Education at Virginia Tech!

Amy joined The Academy in 2016 as a South campus blended grammar and Latin teacher. The following year she transitioned to a full-time 2nd/3rd grade combo teaching position and in 2020 stepped into the administrative position of Development Coordinator/Communications Director. In 2021 Amy's position transitioned once again to the position she holds today.

During her time at The Academy, while also completing her PhD in Curriculum and Instruction at OU, Amy has generously shared her professional expertise and passion for classical education with a sense of camaraderie and commitment. She has served as an expert in the field of education, equipping our principals and faculty with resources and philosophies that have supported the culture, mission, and vision of our school.

Although Amy's long list of responsibilities is too exhaustive to mention here, some highlights include the mentorship of new and existing faculty, serving as a primary public liaison for The Academy, overseeing the development of the Academy Certification Program, and the expansion of our popular J-Term program.

We want to thank Amy for her faithful service in creating, nurturing, and overseeing the educational and cultural endeavors of The Academy. We are deeply grateful for the love and care with which she has chaperoned our school, especially during the past few years of significant growth and pandemic challenges.

We wish Amy and her family God's best as they begin their new life in Virginia!

Warm regards,
Alita M. Richter
Director of Human Resources
The Academy of Classical Christian Studies
405-478-2077 - North Campus

